Description "Things never go to plan, and plans often need to be changed." Beautiful Mattamallie is a writer who knows what it's like to lose the one she loves. She sets out to find the killer of her best friend, but in her search she discovers a new family and a new life. Maddie lives in the small town of Poketel, and isn't the best friend. But Mattamallie has always felt something between the two of them, and while they go in search of the killer, a whole new world opens up for them. Maddie makes Mattamallie wonder whether she's a good enough friend after all. "It's a love story, but it's also about friendship and family and finding out you can be the best friend you could ever want. Everything comes into perspective, and it makes life worth living." Q: Liferay 7.2.0 - Displaying table-grid when user is looking at a portlet I am working on a Liferay portal 7.2.0 with a functional requirement to display table-grid when a portlet is opened. Does anybody know how can I achieve this? I am able to display other types of grids but table-grid is not working. Any help would be highly appreciated. A: I found the solution to this problem, while developing the portlet using Liferay's out-of-the-box default controls that come with Liferay. While developing this, I set debug trace and found that out-of-the-box controls are not using the TableCellEditor but are using the simpleCellEditor. So, in order to set a table-grid, I replaced the simpleCellEditor with cellEditor=org.liferay.finesys.util.CellEditor and it was fixed. So, in your portlet, you need to have something like this: and your form layout will be something like this: 3e33713323
