In the current study, we aim to assess the usefulness of one-step PCR enrichment and ligation-mediated fluorescence in situ hybridization (FISH) analysis for the detection of minimal residual disease (MRD) in childhood acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL). The bone marrow (BM) samples from 100 children with newly diagnosed ALL were cultured in methylcellulose culture medium for detecting MRD according to the manufacturer's instruction. In addition, ligation-mediated FISH analysis was performed to detect MRD. Chromosome 9 and 11 translocations were used as markers in identifying all minimal residual disease. Among these patients, 25.5% of them have MRD. The results of one-step PCR enrichment and ligation-mediated FISH showed that MRD rates were 13.3% and 18.7% by two-color and three-color FISH respectively. A simple rapid and sensitive approach is suggested. This approach might be useful for routine detection of MRD in childhood ALL patients. Yamaha Yukon Woz Author's review In your Yamaha sports collection there is no doubt that you hold a special place for the Woz. This character surely offers more than its' looks and original cool cartoon design. The Woz is in fact one of the most versatile and high performance fishing kayaks in its' category. The Woz can be equipped with an engine of your choice, being compatible with motors of around 20 to 150 horsepower. Its' fully tapered hull allows for maximum speed and maneuverability. Featuring a comfortable new design seat, the Woz makes you feel as if you were riding a motorcycle. The hull and deck are made of high tensile carbon fibre in a custom rolled blank shape. Lightweight and streamlined, the Woz offers you a nautical feel in a fun environment. The Woz is also equipped with a removable and stackable backbone system which offers 10 different positions and makes fishing or navigation even easier.
