Voluminous $\mu\text{-Cl-ZnI(3)F}_2$: a red-emitting fluorozincate. The di- μ -chlorinated fluorozincate of zinc, $\text{Zn}_2\text{I}_2\text{Cl}_2$, forms highly luminescent solutions in organic media. As in the previously characterised μ -chlorotrisfluorozincate ($\text{Zn}_2\text{Cl}_2\text{I}_6$), new clusters of ZnI_2F_2 5- and 3+-like were found, whereas the low-spin $\text{Zn}_2\text{I}_2\text{Cl}_4$ 6-like was absent. The present results are compared to the simpler molecule of zinc, ZnI_2F_2 . Q: Suppose $f: \mathbb{R}^2 \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$ is differentiable at each point, and $f(0,0) = 0$? Suppose $f: \mathbb{R}^2 \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$ is differentiable at each point, and $f(0,0) = 0$. Prove that f is the null function (consequently identically zero). What I'm trying is to suppose, if there was a point $(a,b) \in \mathbb{R}^2$ such that $f(a,b) \neq 0$, then the graph of f on this point is a straight line. But I couldn't see how to conclude it from $f(0,0) = 0$. Please help... A: You have the function $g(x) = f(x, 0)$. Then g is differentiable. By the constant function theorem you have that g is constant. In particular, $f(x, 0) = 0$ for all x . But

$f(x, y) = 0$ for all $x, y \in \mathbb{R}$ implies $f(x, 0) = 0$ for all $x \in \mathbb{R}$

Roleplaying games group created all original art, characters and stories etc. as well as collecting and experience in learning to create games of any variety. We're also remixing popular games in this part of the internet, and we could use a few new characters as well as new ideas for game design.[IMG] OMG! I managed to get a game started~ I joined the original server. I just got in character, My name is Wotage(lol) Its hard to write German, but im getting there... Anyway I have a small question (Gotta start somewhere) - I'm storyboarding, Custom mapmaking, and level design and programming on it at the moment WTF I really like the combat system the use of runes and motion to control attacks and that kind of stuff, what do you people think about customize attacks, spells, weapons, armor etc. Not being literate in AS3 I am a little upset with the amount of time it takes to make it do what I want it do, also I know it can be faster for a experienced character designer. The combat system is classic, move in different ways a different way basic hack n slash I don't see your customizations will be needed. Your actually gonna try this right? Untill we find out what your trying to do we can't really help you, Other then help you research. We need to know what you can attack and what can you defend against. If you can make your own weapon just tell us you are making your own weapon and then we can say what you can do with it,
