I just want to make it clear, that it doesn't mean that the panel that makes 720p movies is using something like this. And it doesn't mean that they have changed the sampling rate after the movie was shot, with the only purpose of making it in 720p. Can someone put together a primer on two primary terms: OverDrive and Avro. Also, what does the Ambient Channel do? I'm curious if this is how the streaming will work from the library in the future. And, will the Ambient Channel be responsible for creating some kind of mixed genre, i.e. Combo Disc? After the overview, I would like to read about the new players. Obviously, there is no list or quick overview of the new players, nor of how much they do streams. Can someone put together a primer on two primary terms: OverDrive and
